ELAND CASE THROWN OUT

DEMOCRATS WIN
HOUSE FIGHT ON INCOME TAXES

Garner Plan Victor
Over Mellon.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—(Special)—The Democratic tax reduction plan was over the Mellon plan in the House, acting as committee of the whole.

The Garner amendment, embodying a Democratic surtax and normal tax rates and increased personal exemptions, was approved by a vote of 222 to 166. This was not only a majority of those voting, but four more than a majority of the full house membership. The vote was by tellers.

While no record roll calls are taken as committee of the house, the action was so decisive as to leave no possibility of a reversal when a roll call is demanded just before final passage of the bill.

17 Insurgents Join Democrats.
The Democratic victory was made possible by the votes of seventeen independent and one Farmer-Labor member who joined with 205 Democrats in support of the Garner amendment. The independent Republicans swung over to the Democratic plan after all efforts of Republican leaders to obtain a compromise had proved unsuccessful.

Definite action was taken on the Garner amendment. The Frear amendment, providing for the retention of existing surtaxes and reducing normal tax rates in much the same manner as the Garner amendment, was defeated by a vote of 46 to 224.

Mellon Plan Ties Vote.

There was also a test vote directly on the Mellon plan. This was made possible through an amendment offered by Representative Madden (Rep.) to the Frear amendment. The Madden amendment embraced the Mellon normal tax rates and the Mellon surtax rates with the single exception that the highest rate was made 25 per cent instead of 25 per cent, this change being necessary in order to make it possible to submit an amendment which was substantially the same as the original bill.

The Madden amendment was rejected by a vote of 152 to 244 after Representative Madden had appealed to members who wished to follow the President to support him. The total vote cast for the Mellon plan was greater than expected, only 120 votes having heretofore been claimed for the 25 per cent maximum surtax.

No Vote on Retraction.

The retroactive feature of the Mellon plan, providing for a 25 per cent reduction in taxes paid in 1924 on 1923 income, was not voted on and likely will not be reached for several days.

After adopting the Garner amendment the house went on to the consideration of other sections of the bill. A sharp controversy occurred over an amendment offered by Representative George (Dem.) Tex. ranking Democrat on the ways and means committee, the taxation of stock dividends as income. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 127 to 141. It provided that a stock dividend shall, to the extent of its fair market value, be taxed like the distribution in the same manner as a dividend paid in money.

Was Held Unconstitutional.

Those advocating the stock dividend amendment contended that it was unconstitutional as the taxation of stock dividends as income had been held unconstitutional by the Supreme court by a vote of 144 to 143 as much as the membership of the court has been greatly changed since then the questions involved should be again submitted.

Those opposing the amendment contended that this procedure would be unconstitutional, the decision of the court having been reaffirmed in a subsequent opinion by a vote of 7 to 2.

The Garner plan as approved by the provides for normal tax rates of 4 per cent on net incomes of $5,000 and 5 per cent on that portion of incomes between $5,000 and $8,000, and 8 per cent on that portion of income above $8,000.

Present Tax Is Doubtful.

The normal tax rates in the present bill are 4 per cent on the amount of income below $4,000 and 8 per cent on that point.

The Mellon plan the normal rates would have been reduced by 25 per cent, making them 3 per cent on the amount of income below $4,000 and 6 per cent on that portion of income above $4,000.

More than the present maximum surtax rate provided by the Garner plan is 44 per cent, on that portion of income above $10,000. Under the Mellon plan the maximum rate of 25 per cent on incomes above $10,000, while the Frear plan the present maximum rate of 50 per cent on incomes above $10,000 would be retained.

Exempt $3,000 Exemptions.

The Garner plan as approved includes personal exemptions from $3,000 for a single person and $5,000 for a married couple.

PASTOR'S FLOCK RINGS CHIMES OVER VICTORY

Husband's Plea for Decree Appealed.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

(Pictures on back page)

The Rev. Carl D. Case, named nationally on Jan. 12 as co-respondent in Albert R. Leland's divorce suit against his wife, Charlotte Leland, was branded with a judicial and indirect "not guilty" yesterday afternoon when Judge Charles M. Foell in six terse words announced:

"The prayer for divorce is denied."

Legally the decision, which started principals as well as spectators, concerned itself exclusively with the future marital status of the Lelands, an obscure enough Oak Park couple.

For the co-respondent, even though he be the minister of the First Baptist church, Judge Foell repeatedly pointed out during the hearing, has no legal connection with the suit.

CHINING RING OUT VICTORY.

Actually the verdict rebounded from the defeat of Leland and his wife who sought, singularly, to help him prove her guilty, to a victory for the pastor.

And Dr. Case's implied triumph spread with feverish excitement from the silent hubbub in the court room to the nervously expectant group of church women out in the Oak Park church house. When a telephone call had translated the Leland defeat into a Case victory, the women rushed down Shorey to the church chimes.

And for half an hour the reassuring tones of the ding-dong tolled the village that Dr. Case had been found loyal to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. Leland's charge.

Court Grants Appeal.

Those same six words that started the church bells ringing led Attorney Millard Ochs, counsel for Leland, to institute proceedings to appeal his case to the Appellate court. After his motion for a new trial had been denied by Judge Foell, Attorney Ochs prayed for an appeal, which was granted by the court.

And before the last intonations of the doxology had echoed across the Oak Park twilight, Leland, not satisfied with what he termed "the psychological defeat" of Dr. Case, was planning ways to overcome the court's decision dismissing the divorce bill "for want of equity."

OAK PARK FLOCK CELEBRATES.

But out in Oak Park until far into the night there was a parochial rejoicing at the Case victory which was filled with flowers, and in the church house, were men, women, and children thronged. The parishioners made their first stop at the parsonage to congratulate the minister. Then they went to the church house to congratulate themselves.

Dr. Case denied himself to all except his intimate friends and declined to attend the informal reception in the church.

Attorney Dehner, Clithero, representing the church, ridiculed any suggestion that the pastor might reappear.

Dehner notified the police and Sergeant William Reker in another tax paid on Zind's machine, overtaking it at East 87th street and South Chicago avenue, where the revolver battle and capture followed.

Houston notified the police and Sergeant William Reker in another tax paid on Zind's machine, overtaking it at East 87th street and South Chicago avenue, where the revolver battle and capture followed.

Doesn't Want Business to Catch Oil Mystery

BY GRAFTON WILCOX

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—President Coolidge, the White House spokesman, today told the American people that the White House government still was functioning and that business of the country was prospering despite disclosures of the naval oil lease case and the wave of political hysteria which followed.

The oil investigation has not, however, been discontinued, and with the exception of the President, injured by the government machinery, and with the exception of the people, the government will be able to prove that the government has not committed any wrongs.

LINCOLN'S COAT IN CHICAGO OR IN QUAKER CITY?

Both 'Claim Only Real,
Genuine Article.'

(Picture on back page.)

Has Chicago the coat worn by Abraham Lincoln when he was shot?

Or is it in Philadelphia?

Chicago was sure this historic relic reposed in its Historical society's cabinet until yesterday a Philadelphia auctioneer came along and threw it into the ring. At late hour it was reached the conclusion that the correct

answer is "No."

As many coats as there have been deaccessioned at the White House since the civil war.

Brotherly Love!

Lincoln students in Illinois have been steadily and their belief in the one coat rests on the fact that the coat has been held, exhibited, and treasured

by the Chicago Historical society as one of its priceless possessions.

Moreover, the society holds a batch of affidavits, presented to it along with the coat by Frank G. Logan, proving that

Chicago's coat is the genuine garment worn by the martyred President on the evening of April 14, 1865, when he was shot by John Wilkes Booth in a box at Ford's Theatre in Washington.

But yesterday came disproofs from

Philadelphia, the City of Brotherly

Love, stating that an auctioneer had offered the coat for the stock of the Manhattan Oil company, organized by Samuel D. Tilden, and that it was offered for $5,000.

And with the coat the auctioneer had thrown in a pair of wrinkled trousers,

"a badly torn overcoat, and a faded skirt stock," all worn by Lincoln on that tragic evening.

Proofs for Both Coats.

The garments, according to the auctioneer, had been presented to Alphonse Donn, a White House doorman, by Lincoln, and a letter from

Frank G. Logan to Donn was in the bargain.

But it so happens that back in 1889,

when Mr. Logan was in Washington making a collection of Lincoln relics,

he obtained the coat worn by Lincoln on the night of his assassination.

The garments, according to the auctioneer, had been presented to Alphonse Donn, a White House doorman, by Lincoln, and a letter from

Frank G. Logan to Donn was in the bargain.

One never grows too old to forget the pleasures of eating. And yet old people will sometimes play on these memories and bring out the old simple, even childish, ways. From childhood to old age overcomes or prevents the distaste of eating.

It is the same with the stomach.

DR. CASE WINS; LELAND DIVORCE PLEA DISMISSED

Husband Takes Appeal; Will Fight On.

Durward C. Adams, son of the Rev. George Adams of Mount Vernon, New York. Again the pendulum of innocence swung away from the accused minister as young Adams (testified that his mother, at the time she was divorced five years ago, had confided to him that Dr. Case was one of the men with whom she had her affairs.

Again, and more Dr. Case stood the stand to admit such a charge had been made by Dr. Adams.

"You," he said, "Adams wrote me a letter demanding $2,500 or he'd expose me. I didn't answer the first letter. To the second letter, of advice of my lawyer, I replied. I told him the whole thing was a blackmail plot and I wasn't afraid of him."

"He Square," Judge Demands.

Self-appointed judges began to chafe an upward path to the bench directly to a direct decision for Leland when Justice Field twice rebuked Attorney Frederick A. Brown, counsel for the minister and friend of the court.

"Now, let's be square about this," remonstrated the judge. "You know as well as I do that Dr. Case has no standing in this court. His name is co-respondent, but the only decision to be made is whether or not this complaint is entitled to a hearing."

"We are not here to blarney Dr. Case's character. Neither are we here to make a character for him. His character and education have nothing whatever to do with the issue joined in this divorce hearing. We feel sorry for Dr. Case, certainly, if anything happens to his character, but that is not the consideration."

Leland Journeys, Case Grim.

This speech was taken almost unanimously as the predication of a decision in favor of Leland.

Mr. Leland smiled with understanding satisfaction. Mrs. Leland looked as pleased as at any time during the trial. And it was as if the ashen gray face of the minister grew more gaunt than ever.

The undercurrent of feeling that a divorce was to be granted was evident throughout the closing arguments of counsel.

Briefly, with determined confidence, Attorney Olds bid for the victory of the day with a series of witnesses testifying regarding the point at issue.

"In the absence of collusion," Mr. Olds declared, "Mrs. Leland's statement that she did commit the act is the best possible proof. She ruined herself to right the wrong as completely as possible."

Case Fought for Position.

"But Dr. Case denied all. Is there any other thing that Dr. Case, in these peculiar circumstances, could have done? He was not fighting for his life. He was fighting for something more serious than that—for his position in life."

Regarding Mrs. Leland's "suggestibility," testified by the two attorneys called into the case by Attorney Brown, Mr. Olds boomeranged this evidence back on the minister.

"High degree of suggestibility?" Certainly Mrs. Leland had it. That's the very thing that makes this charge plausible. The minister put her mind these subtle ideas. He convinced her that as long as the things of the heart and mind are pure and no one is being harmed, an act is not wrong."

Backs Divorce Demand.

Summarizing, he declared there were only three conditions which could nullify the divorce case:

1. Reconciliation, which, he declared, had not been proved.

2. Conviction of which, he protested, there was no evidence. He cited Mrs. Leland's pleading letters to her husband, in which she professed her love and her desire for reconciliation.

3. Evidence disproved.

"Of that," said Olds, "there is not the vaguest suggestion."

Attorney Olds brought out that Attorney Brown, he insisted, had obtained from Mrs. Leland on the stand "the sordid details of her son."

Makes Plea for Pastor.

Attorney Brown, in his closing argument, stressed the testimony of the four alibiists. The most favorable of whom said Mrs. Leland was a border-line case. He emphasized Leland's legend of "third degree" of obtaining his wife's confession. He played up the "great improbability of a Christian woman, the mother of three children, who had led a virtuous life until she was 40, suddenly going wrong."

And he climaxed his argument with a plea that it was "inconceivable that a man of Dr. Case's education and position in human society would 'take a chance and risk all' without even taking ordinary precautions of having doors closed."

Going back to Mrs. Leland's testimony on the stand, Mr. Brown pointed out the singularly consistent way in which she forgot the time and place of "these great emotional experiences and was unable to fix the date within six days."

Judge Bars Remonstration.

Mr. Olds gave a brief rebuttal, and then the court adjourned his threat.

It was quiet in the room as the judge gave his order.

The court wants no expression of approval or disapproval of his decision from any one in the courtroom after the decision is announced. If there is any one here who thinks he can restrain himself, please retire now."

Everybody looked at everybody else. Judge Field continued:

"The judgment of reasons for the court's decision in this case would naturally involve a more or less detailed discussion of the testimony. The evidence already too widely circulated, is of such a character that the consideration of public morals demands that the court refrain from further expounding it. Therefore, in deciding this case, the court will announce his decision without comment."

Divorce is Denied.

Then: "The power for divorce is denied. The bill will be dismissed for want of equity. Please retire."

It needed no warning to keep the hearers from making a demonstration. Nobody made a sound or a mo-

Leland Case Decision Causes Flood of Varying Conjectures

Legal causes for the denial of a divorce decree to Albert Leland were a topic of wide conjecture last night following Judge Field's decision, which did not discuss the issues of the case.

"Does it mean Dr. Case is completely exonerated?"

"Is it that Mrs. Leland suffered from hallucinations?"

"Was it on purely legal flaws that the divorce was not granted?"

"Did Mrs. Leland conspire with her husband?"

These and hundreds of similar questions were asked—and are unanswered. Judge Field refused to comment. No one else could tell. And there can be no answer, unless, as indicated, a higher court is asked to review Judge Field's decision.

Reversal to Be Asked.

An appeal was prayed and allowed at the request of Leland's attorney, Milford H. Olds, who announced he would ask the Appellate court to reverse Judge Field's decision. Almost invariably the higher court, in its opinion, gives an extensive discussion of reasons for its decisions.

One viewpoint of Judge Field's decision, that adopted by Dr. Case's friends, was that the evidence had failed to convince him of misconduct with Mrs. Leland.

This explanation, it was pointed out, might be the heritage of her three children, it was said. A man high in the church, as is Dr. Case, might be considered except as to the welfare of the children. In this event, it was pointed out, legal defects in the case could be used to cause denial of the divorce.

Possible legal flaws could be evidence of collusion between Leland and his wife, failure to produce a sufficient number of witnesses to support the charges or other technical reasons, according to some who expressed opinions.

The public, having for weeks viewed the proceedings in the case, and having been denied a judicial solution, must make its own, was the way some characterized the situation.

too for what seemed a long, long time. Then the pastor reached for his hat and coat and hustled out of the room through a crowd of excited staters.

At the door a cordon of perhaps twenty men from the parish surrounded him, stopped his hand, and forced him down the stairs. Automatically with the decision the attitude of the deacons swung clear around from friendliness to those who sought for information to a policy of isolation.

Leland Shows Amazement.

One man, apparently in charge of things, almost threw Dr. Case down a flight of stairs in his seat to pull him away from a questioner to whom he wished to speak. It was this same man who last night slammed doors at the parsonage in the face of all persons seeking interviews with the minister who had, a few hours before, "welcomed an opportunity to tell the right story to the public."

Back in the court room Leland finally recited his version of the case.

"That man," he said, "had referred to Dr. Case as 'not been found guilty in court, but what man in the Baptist church, I wonder, would like his wife to do personal church work with the minister. Psychologically he's beaten, but I thought it would be more than that."

No Reconciliation.

Regarding his plane Leland was indignant. For the present he will stay with his father at 123 North Elgin street, Forest Park, and the three Leland boys will stay with their mother at the home of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. Beach Loomis of 223 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park.

"And there will be no reconciliation. Absolutely not."

In the event that the Appellate court sustains Judge Field's decision, Leland does not say what steps he will take.

"Well, I can't get the judge's squint," was Attorney Olds' only comment as he escorted Mrs. Leland out of the court room.

Mrs. Leland's Smile Baffles.

Mrs. Leland's tired, incurable smile was just as baffling as it has been all during the hearing. Whether or not the Sunday school worker is glad nobody was able to fathom. For she said nothing.

Attorney Brown explained that he had "known all along" of Dr. Case's "absolute innocence" or he would not have taken the case.

And Dr. Carl D. Case, after he had quietly doffed from the flurry outside the judge's chambers, remarked reflectively, "It was just what I expected."

TELLS OF EASTERN TRIP.

At the morning session Attorney Olds questioned Dr. Case at length regarding his recent trip to New York and Buffalo. Dr. Case frankly said it was a matter of self-protection and that he saw numerous old parishioners in both cities to discuss with them the allegations made against him in the conduct in his two earlier church positions.

He said he went to New York specifically to see H. O. Dodson, an attorney and Sunday school superintendent in the Hanson Place church in Brooklyn, who had sent word asking what he could do for the minister.

Q.—How long did you stay in New York? A.—Just that day.

Q.—Would it not be correct statement, then, that you went down to New York to confer with friends to see what, if anything, they could do for you? A.—No, sir. I went down to New York particularly to see Mr. Dodson, and to see that the arrangement should be sufficient men to come up here to give testimony for me at the trial, and also to get the church records all together.

Q.—Did any of the men think, then, that you were in need of money? A.—Yes, sir. I was told that they have made plans to have me in Chicago, to be your call if needed? A.—They are here.

Q.—How many are they? A.—Two men. Q.—Who are they? A.—Mr. H. O. Dodson and Mr. Alexander Thibert, clerk of the church.

Dr. Case then told about his return visit to Buffalo and Cleveland, where he talked especially with Mr. and Mrs. Will T. Damon, old parishioners. Afterward court suspended the session until afternoon.

WITNESS HITS DR. CASE.

At the opening of the afternoon session of the court, Attorney Olds resumed questioning of Dr. Case.

Q.—Where did you say, doctor, that you attended college? A.—Colgate.

Q.—Was one of your classmates there a man who is now known as the Rev. George A. Adams? A.—Yes, sir. Q.—You were college boys together? A.—Yes sir.

Q.—And did you graduate the same time? A.—Same time.

Q.—And you kept up a friendship for many years (hereafter) A.—Yes.

actual credence or she must have failed.

Any other hypothesis would place some blame upon Dr. Case, it was declared that many things must necessarily be considered in the decision of a suit involving children, the church, the clergy, public morals, and society.

A decree crediting Mrs. Leland's story, written for all time in the court record, would be the heritage of her three children, it was said. A man high in the church, as is Dr. Case, might be considered except as to the welfare of his children and others, and might influence the influence of the minister.

Accounts of the trial have been widely read in the middle west. The decision, if specific as to cause, would have a wide influence, it was pointed out.

Point Out Possible Flaws.

These matters formed the basis of many discussions. But, as the lawyers had not viewed the law, they could be considered except as to the welfare of the children. In this event, it was pointed out, legal defects in the case could be used to cause denial of the divorce.

Possible legal flaws could be evidence of collusion between Leland and his wife, failure to produce a sufficient number of witnesses to support the charges or other technical reasons, according to some who expressed opinions.

as we saw each other at the Baptist meeting.

Q.—While he was in Brooklyn, you visited in his home, did you not? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was the name of his wife? A.—Mrs. C. M. Cunard.

Q.—Do you know where she is? A.—No, I don't, Mrs. Moss.

Q.—Dr. Adams obtained a divorce from the ground of adultery. Did he not? A.—I did not know that until last week.

Q.—And you know, do you not, that the divorce became absolute did he marry again? A.—That I can't tell you definitely. It was less than a year.

Q.—Wasn't it about six days? A.—That I do not know. I could not commit myself on that point.

Q.—Wasn't the divorce made absolute on December 25, 1921, and your father married again in August? A.—In the fall of 1921.

Q.—Do you know why Mr. Cunard was not named in the bill of divorce? A.—The reason I do not know.

Q.—Where is your mother now? A.—New Jersey.

Not Clear on Marriage Data.

Q.—How long after your father's divorce became absolute did he marry again? A.—That I can't tell you definitely. It was less than a year.

Q.—Wasn't it about six days? A.—That I do not know. I could not commit myself on that point.

Q.—Wasn't the divorce made absolute on December 25, 1921, and your father married again in August? A.—In the fall of 1921.

Q.—How did Mr. Moss learn that you had this information? A.—I object.

Q.—Will you state your name? A.—Clarence Hill Frank.

Q.—What is your occupation? A.—Minister of the First Baptist church of Keweenaw, N. Y.

Q.—How long have you been a minister? A.—Well, about eighteen years.

Q.—Are you acquainted with Dr. Carl D. Case? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Were you associated with him at Buffalo, N. Y., about eleven or twelve years ago? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did Dr. Case show you a letter at that time signed by George D. Adams? A.—He did.

Q.—What was the substance of the letter; what did he say? A.—The letter made a demand upon Dr. Case for $25,000 in lieu of a claim of Dr. Adams that Dr. Case had been intimate with his son.

Q.—Did Dr. Case write back? A.—No. As I recall, the first letter I did not see it; I did see a later letter that Dr. Case wrote to Dr. Adams.

Q.—What did that say, in substance? A.—In which he said that he would be willing to meet Dr. and Mrs. Adams in conference only in case Mrs. Case was admitted to the conference.

Q.—What else did he say? A.—I did not see him in Mount Vernon.

Q.—What else did he say in the letter? A.—He did not see him in Mount Vernon.

FRANCE BOWS TO DAWES EXPERTS ON RUHR CONTROL

Crushing Franc Weakens Poincare's Position.

BY HENRY WALES.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 19.—The economic situation of the Ruhr and a business man's settlement of the reparations question are the salient features of the Dawes committee's report, which was practically finished today and which was presented in outline to Premier Poincare by M. Pommerehne, the French expert. M. Poincare is reportedly stated to have accepted the report in principle.

The Dawes committee's work reached its final phase, under circumstances modifying only most of the optimism displayed in the last month. The French government has accepted the following points in the outline of the report:

1.—To surrender control of the Ruhr to the Bank and Rhineland exchange for a general loan on the German railroads.

2.—Establishment of a bank with a capital of 200,000,000

gold marks ($75,000,000), the seat to be selected from the financiers of one neutral country (France prefers here being American).

3.—Economic consolidation of Germany with the surrender of various

Belgian economic control services, such as the interallied mission for control of factories and mines; an organization established to extract

minerals directly from the Ruhr.

4.—A moratorium for Germany—though the experts' recommendation of three years will be reduced by France to two years.

The text of the report now is in the hands of two functionaries who will have the final French and British texts, which will be submitted to the reparations commission no later than March 5, and simultaneously published.

Quai d'Orsay assured this morning that it seems likely that the experts' report will be unanimous. In other words, the difficulties occasioned by the French reluctance to abandon any part of its hold on the Ruhr has grown perhaps less in the last twenty-four hours, with the franc slipping and po-lemes on duty in the money bureaux to keep the crowds of would-be sellers of francs from gathering.

Acceptable in Principle.

The American and French experts in conference with M. Poincare this morning convinced the premier that the report in principle was acceptable.

Details, such as the exact date to which the French control may be allowed over the German railways and the number of years a moratorium is permissible, Premier Poincare does not intend to yield.

The occupation of the Ruhr in an economic sense will end from the date of the acceptance of the report, according to highest sources, both French and American. On the other hand, nothing is said in the report on the military occupation of the Ruhr, and as far as the committee's report.

from $2,000 to $2,400 for heads of families. The Mellon plan did not complete any change in exemptions.

The Garner amendment as adopted does not include that part of the Democratic plan which provides for a reduction of 25% per cent on earned income instead of 25 per cent as proposed by the Mellon plan.

The earned income section of the bill probably will be reached tomorrow, at which time it is expected the Mellon plan will be voted on.

The Garner amendment as proposed does not include that part of the Democratic plan which provides for a reduction of 25% per cent on earned income instead of 25 per cent as proposed by the Mellon plan.

What We Pay Now.

Normal taxes of 2 per cent on incomes between $5,000 and $5,000; 6 per cent on incomes exceeding $5,000.

A graduate surtax scale, beginning at 1 per cent on incomes between $12,000 and $14,000 up to a maximum of 44 per cent on incomes exceeding $22,000.

Exemptions of $2,000 for single persons and $3,000 for heads of families.

TAX RATES VOTED BY HOUSE COMPARED TO WHAT WE PAY NOW

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—The Democratic income tax substitute adopted today by the house provides:

Normal taxes of 2 per cent on incomes between $5,000 and $5,000; 6 per cent on incomes exceeding $5,000.

A graduate surtax scale, beginning at 1 per cent on incomes between $12,000 and $14,000 up to a maximum of 44 per cent on incomes exceeding $22,000.

Exemptions of $2,000 for single persons and $3,000 for heads of families.

What We Pay Now.

Normal taxes of 4 per cent on incomes up to $4,000 and 8 per cent above $5,000.

Surtaxes beginning at 1 per cent on incomes between $6,000 and $10,000 and graduating progressively to 50 per cent on incomes in excess of $200,000.

Exemptions of $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for heads of families.

What Mellon Asked.

The Mellon provision eliminated proposed:

Normal rates of 3 per cent on incomes up to $4,000 and 6 per cent on incomes exceeding $4,000.

Surtaxes ranging from 1 per cent on incomes between $10,000 and $12,000 to 25 per cent on incomes exceeding $100,000.

No increase in personal tax exemptions.

WARN'S CHICAGO PEOPLE TO FILE INCOME FACTS

A warning to Chicagoans who might file income tax returns because of the belief that the tax reduction measures now before Congress would not be retroactive, the thirty-one warning.

Administrative decisions have been made to file special forms on the second floor of the federal building and an information booth on the first floor, but so far the rush has failed to materialize.

Although only nineteen working days remain before the closing date, a mere 12,000 out of the 781,000 in the Chicago district have filed returns.

The rush will be an unprecedented one with both the public and the internal revenue office doing the suffering, unless the sixty-three deputies are kept busy from now on.

An income tax expert also is maintained by the Tax Bureau at its public service bureau, 11 South Dearborn street, where returns may be sworn in by any one desiring to make use of this accommodation.

"They are holding back under the erroneous impression that they will save money by doing so. Nothing could be further from the truth.

March 15 Is Last Day.

"March 15 is the last day for filing returns and making first payments.

Regardless of what congress may do about making the proposed measures retroactive to include 1923 returns, tax-holders should realize that they will have to file and pay one quarterly payment. If it is not paid on time a 25 per cent penalty immediately will be imposed.

"Then, if the measures make sense and become retroactive, the thirty-one will have lost their chance at the reductions. The longer you put it off the more inconvenient you make it for yourselves and us."

Deputies are Rep. Wailling.

Collector Reinecke's warning was occasioned by the dearth of business being done by the thirty-one special deputies assigned to take care of the rush. Administrations have been made to file special forms on the second floor of the federal building and an information booth on the first floor, but so far the rush has failed to materialize.

FIRST TESTIMONY IN MALM TRIAL EXPECTED TODAY

With the arrest of Max Baluk, said to be the original and only legal husband of Mrs. Katherine Baluk-Malm, charged with the slaying of Edward Lehman, amateur watchman, followed by the acceptance of eight jurors to try the case, the state rushed forward yesterday in the prosecution of the alleged murderer.

The first testimony in an attempt to prove Mrs. Baluk-Malm the woman who fired three bullets into Lehman will be given by the jury this afternoon by Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Pritzker and Robert E. McMullen, it was predicted last night.

"The absent four members of the jury will be chosen this afternoon," Pritzker said.

"When that is done we will begin our attempt to send this woman to the gallows."

While the work of selecting jurors was in progress all day, Mrs. Malm sat alongside her attorney, Jay J. Mc-Carthy, and watched. She took an interest, it appeared, in everything that was going on and frequently conferred with him on the qualifications of various men who passed through the jury box.

Prosecutors Pritzker and McMullen demand that the jury make a finding for the killing of Lehman. They consider the arrest of Baluk important, inasmuch as he will be asked to prove his marriage to Mrs. Malm, making it legally possible for Otto Malm, who pleaded guilty to the murder, to testify against his "wife."

Scores Firm's Tactics in Letter to Legion.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Threats from business interests to dismiss employees upon failure to petition congress for enactment of the Mellon tax bill and for defeat of bonus legislation were denounced today by the White House as "utterly un-American, subversive of the very fundamentals of democracy and calculated to arouse hostilities between employers and employees."

C. E. Tremain, editor of the American Legion Weekly, criticized sharply a circular letter sent out to employees of the Aeolian company of New York [which today was repudiated by the Aeolian company and its author, "fired" six employees to request their members of congress to vote for the Mellon bill and defeat the bonus, and ended with the declaration that the company would check its pay roll "within the next couple of weeks to find out who pays written and who have not."]

Opposes Any Coercion

"The President desires me to say," Mr. Tremain's letter said, "that while he is opposed to the granting of the soldier bonus, he is completely in sympathy with the protest which the American Legion Weekly voices against this kind of prodding to defeat the bonus measure. He feels strongly that such support for his policies is certain to be injurious rather than helpful. His own attitude about the bonus is well known."

"But he believes also that efforts to organize an apparent sentiment against the measure, such as are represented by the circular quoted, are utterly un-American, subversive of the very fundamentals of democracy, and calculated to arouse hostilities between employers and employees."

Opinion Should Be Free

"This question of the bonus is a public question. Every American citizen is entitled to entertain and express his own opinion regarding it. No interest or authority has the right to mislead congress or the public or check expression of honest judgment."

"There is no higher duty under such government as ours than to keep pure and undefiled the sources and channels of public sentiments. The President has claimed for himself, because he believed it his duty, the right to disagree with many members of your organization and many other citizens, regarding the bonus. But he insists that every other citizen shall have the same right of absolutely independent judgment that he demands for himself."

AEGLIAN FIRM ENDS BONUS WAR; FIRES SPONSOR

Move Began Without Its Knowledge.

The campaign instituted in the name of the Aeolian company, New York, to induce its employees to ask their congressmen to oppose the bonus for service men was brought to a sharp stop yesterday by the Aeolian company itself and the person responsible for it has been discharged.

A circular letter issued to Aeolian employees calling upon the employees to favor the Mellon bill and fight the bonus had become public through the columns of the American Legion Weekly. It was this master which was the subject of an editorial headed "A Raw Case" printed in the Tribune yesterday.

Company Calls Halt.

THE TRIBUNE yesterday afternoon received a copy of a letter written by E. B. Tremain, president of the Aeolian company, to the American Legion Weekly, 627 West 43d street, New York. The letter was dated Feb. 18, 1924, as follows:

Dear Sirs: In your publication of Feb. 8 there appeared a letter, written by Mr. William V. Swords, an official of this company. This letter, as far as it attempted to influence the action of our employees, does not represent the attitude or spirit of the officials or directors of the Aeolian company and was written without their knowledge or approval.

"I have written a letter which has been sent to the employees who received the letter, written by Mr. Swords. I enclose a copy of my letter and I request that you publish it, giving it, if possible, the same prominence as you gave the letter of Mr. Swords.

"I might say in closing that Mr. Swords is no longer connected with the Aeolian company.

"Very truly yours,
"THE AEOLIAN COMPANY,
"E. B. Tremain, President."

Issue Letter to Employees.

The letter to Aeolian employees follows:

Feb. 18, 1924.—To All Aeolian Employees: You were recently the recipients of a letter written by Mr. Swords requesting you to write to your senators and representatives at Washington, D. C., in opposition to the Mellon tax bill and oppose the soldiers' bonus bill when it should come before congress for consideration.

"This letter was written by Mr. Swords without consultation with the other company officials and without my consent or approval. I had no knowledge of it until it appeared in the papers.

"The action by Mr. Swords in this matter is particularly reprehensible in the history of the Aeolian company covering a period of nearly half a century, and it is entirely contrary to the ideals and policies of the company's directors and officials.

"I do not know that any one has been influenced by this letter to act in any way contrary to their convictions. If such is the case, it is my earnest recommendation that they take necessary steps to correct this regrettable occurrence. Very truly yours,

"H. B. Tremain, President."

SENATE PLUNGES INTO SCRAP OVER BONUS "JUGGLE"

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—The Senate took a hand today in the bonus bill after returning to a fight precipitated by a decision of Senator Bruce [Dem., Md.] that the committee's proposal was a "squall and odious gratuity." It voted for an inquiry into charges attributed to Col. Thomas Miller, Allen property custodian, that the treasury "had jiggled" its estimates of the cost of a bonus.

The investigation was proposed in a resolution introduced by Senator Harrison [Dem., Miss.], which was adopted today without a record vote. It puts the inquiry in the hands of the senate finance committee.

Call Bruce "Dempseys' Champion."

Before Senator Bruce had time for a breathing spell after his address on the bonus, Senator Caraway [Dem., Ark.] had called him a champion of "Jack Dempseys of the war," and a number of others were on their feet to take exception to some of his remarks.

On top of this Senator Robinson [Dem., Ark.], party leader, charged that Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan had violated the quasi-confidential relations of "lawyer and client" by trying to use in anti-bonus work the organization employing his services as special counsel with the senate committee which investigated the veterans bureau.

Closes Railroads' "Bonds."

After Senator Bruce had expressed the opinion that the bonus was "defensible in principle," Senator Caraway charged the Maryland senator had evidenced no concern "when the railroads had sought and got a bonus of $1,300,000,000."

"I might say in closing that Mr. Swords is no longer connected with the Aeolian company.

"Very truly yours,

"THE AEOLIAN COMPANY,
"E. B. Tremain, President."

Issue Letter to Employees.

The letter to Aeolian employees follows:

Feb. 18, 1924.—To All Aeolian Employees: You were recently the recipients of a letter written by Mr. Swords requesting you to write to your senators and representatives at Washington, D. C., in opposition to the Mellon tax bill and oppose the soldiers' bonus bill when it should come before congress for consideration.

"This letter was written by Mr. Swords without consultation with the other company officials and without my consent or approval. I had no knowledge of it until it appeared in the papers.

"The action by Mr. Swords in this matter is particularly reprehensible in the history of the Aeolian company covering a period of nearly half a century, and it is entirely contrary to the ideals and policies of the company's directors and officials.

"I do not know that any one has been influenced by this letter to act in any way contrary to their convictions. If such is the case, it is my earnest recommendation that they take necessary steps to correct this regrettable occurrence. Very truly yours,

"H. B. Tremain, President."

MASONIC TEMPLE DRIVE FUND NEAR $3,000,000 MARK

Members of the Eastern Star and Masons who have been active in the drive for $5,000,000 to erect a Masonic Temple on Randolph street between State and Dearborn streets, have planned a special commemoration luncheon on Washington's birthday. The total raised is now close to $3,000,000 and it is planned by the drive leaders to have special luncheons intermittently from now on until the end of the drive.

CARTER DEMANDS APOLOGY BEFORE RESUMING WORK

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—Replying to the telegram from the Egyptian minister of public works giving him forty-eight hours in which to resume work in the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, Howard Carter wired the minister today that he was ready to take up the work again, provided he received an apology from the director of antiquities and an undertaking from the minister of public works that there would be no interference with his task. Otherwise he said he would take proceedings against the government.

Scholle's Semi-Annual Sale of Good Furniture

Walnut Hepplewhite Dining Room Suite, with inlays of other rare woods:

	Sale Price
Sideboard	$171.00
Extension Table	123.00
Silver Cabinet	123.00
Service Chest	76.00
Chairs, each	34.00
Arm Chair	47.50

YOU can buy lots of low price furniture, but it's dangerous. Low-quality is usually the reason for the low price.

Low-quality furniture is seldom economical. Economy depends more on the quality you get than the price you pay. You may pay twice as much for one table as you do for another. But if the higher-priced table lasts three times as long as the other, it's economical; the lower-priced table is expensive.

All the furniture in this store is Scholle-quality furniture—the best that we can buy. It's priced as low as possible.

Just now, during our sale, we are able to give you the benefit of some very attractive values; because the manufacturers were glad to put special prices on their goods, during their dull season. We bought a lot of furniture at that time, just for this sale; and we're passing the benefit of these special prices along to you.

You get something more at this store; something that you don't have to pay for. We know how to buy furniture; we give you the benefit of that knowledge, by helping you to get what is just right. We guarantee your complete satisfaction. If you're not satisfied, we will gladly call for the goods, give you something else, or refund your money.

If you see something in the list below that looks like "just the thing," don't wait too long. We're sorry to disappoint our friends; but in many cases there's only one of a kind; sometimes they're snapped up quickly.

This is a list of good things:

ENGLAND CRIES FOR FOOD WHICH ROTS AT PORTS

Deckers' Big Strike Is Spreading Paralysis.

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

Copyright 1924 by The Chicago Tribune.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—[Tribune Radio]

—The ports hermetically sealed by the strike of 120,000 general workers in Great Britain on the second day of its most serious labor dispute already has begun to feel the pinch of economic solution.

There is not another nation in the world as dependent upon the dockers, and the British public is just beginning to realize of what has been lost. For the first time their essential foreign trade is effectively blocked, and they are dismayed to learn that this damping of commerce has so quickly touched them individually in their dealings with the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker.

Spread of Strike.

There is genuine alarm at the way the dislocation is spreading to sympathetic unions, whose members handle the goods which came from the docks even before the dockers struck. And the slow paralysis is infecting the large industries engaged in importing and exporting.

No hope is contained in the statement of Ben Tillet, guiding the destinies of the transport workers' union that there is "no likelihood of the strike continuing for several weeks."

The minister of labor did tell the house of commons today that he believed there might soon be a settlement, but it will depend on a change of attitude by one side or the other.

Government Opens Inquiry.

The court of inquiry appointed by the government to study the controversy held a preliminary session today. It will hold its first public hearing tomorrow. The dockers assert that they are not bound by its findings, but these will be published, and the government is counting a great deal upon their effect upon the public and the public's opinion upon the contestants. But many days will elapse before the inquiry is completed.

Truth was expressed in a hasty quelling meeting of the council of the dockers' union congress, which settled the rail strike last month, but after listening to the dockers it adopted a resolution congratulating them "for their defense of a living wage, and calling upon the affiliated organizations to assist."

The abrupt rise in prices of food, and meat especially, today led to the appointment today by Col. Wedgwood of an undersecretary in the war government's chief civil commission of the "war's" emergency strike commission. Under the emergency powers act of 1920, it has the authority to fix prices and to provide regulations for the distribution and guarantee of an uninterrupted flow of foodstuffs. It is now up to them to see that the nation gets enough to eat.

At the Great Marshall market there was only 644 tons of meat today, against 1,941 tons last Tuesday, despite the fact that the tonnage of domestic meat is more than double the usual amount. All the cold storage houses are packed. Meat is withdrawn with difficulty and at personal risk. Live beef has advanced over $40 per head.

Fish Trade Blocked.

Because of the attitude of the employes, the railroads have refused to receive fish for shipment at Grimsby. More than 1,800 tons was dumped into the sea. The landing of Norwegian herring has been stopped at Hull, and 2,000 girls employed at cleaning the herring boats no longer are calling at British ports.

Air services from the continent have stopped since the strike began.

The liners Tyrrhenia and Doric docked at Liverpool with the assistance of officials and the clerical staff. The crew of the Orions refuses to sign on until the abrogation of the clause in the agreement requiring them to load coal and cargo.

Public sympathy so far seems to be supporting the demands of the dockers.

The government's argument indicates that the cost of living is higher than the 2 shillings a day they are asking for was deducted. Shipping firms also confess that their dividends in 1923 averaged 7½ per cent.

About 5,000 sacks of mail from America still are on tenders in British harbor.

Judge Denies New Trial for Smale and Carlisle

Edward Smale Jr. and Thomas Carlisle, former police sergeants, who were found guilty of an attempt to fix the jury that acquitted them and two other policemen of "bribe-taking" a truckload of whisky, were denied a new trial yesterday by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindsey.

LABOR REFUSES TO ARM ENGLAND AGAINST FRANCE

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 19.—[Tribune Radio]

—A sharp attack on the idealistic attitude of the MacDonald government toward limitation of armaments was precipitated in the house of commons tonight by Sir Samuel Hoare, air minister in the Baldwin regime, who moved a resolution, "affirming the principle laid down by the late government that Great Britain must maintain a home defense air force of sufficient strength to give adequate protection against attack by the strongest air force within striking distance."

Hoare pressed the government to define its attitude upon the question of home air defense.

Only 20 First Officers.

"We have now but eighty first line airplanes definitely allotted to home defense, compared with about 3,000 in the French," he said. "That is a startling difference. The largest quantity of bombs dropped on Britain's shores in a month was twelve tons, while 200 airplanes would be able to drop 170 tons in twenty-four hours." The French authorities estimate that a force of 500 planes could obliterate in a single night a city one kilometer (slightly more than a half mile) square, or wipe out a city like Paris in a fortnight or three weeks."

Under Mr. Bonar Law, Mr. Samuel Hoare was entrusted with the task of building up a force of 600 first line machines in forty-two squadrons, primarily for home defense. Was the labor government going to carry out that project or not?

Body of Labor.

William Lewis, Parliamentary air reporter for the newspaper, said the disparity between the air armament of Great Britain and France was a legacy from the last government and not the responsibility of the labor cabinet. For the moment the Laborites refused to be alarmed by that disparity. The best weapon in diplomacy he believed to be "righteousness of one's cause." Preparedness indicates fear of one's neighbor, and I am not a disbeliever in it. The righteousness of France's intentions, I believe are well founded. We are preparing for peace, and we already see a break in the clouds."

A definite question put by Sir Samuel Mr. Leach replied:

"There is no change in the policy of the government for the time being in this matter."

Which remark elicited cheers from the opposition side of the house and calls of "Shame" from the labor members.

The Next War.

"The scheme will be carried out in definite stages," continued Mr. Leach, "but that will not deter us from taking steps for defense, or for limitation of armaments, if we consider that the situation warrants it. We would welcome a new Washington conference. The only adequate defense is the changed international atmosphere. If we put fear at the helm and folly at the helm, we will after straighten out the next war."

Those bilious assertions provoked derisive laughter from the conservative benches, and a crowd of Tory wild men jumped to their feet to reply when Mr. Leach sat down.

The first man from the Tory side said that the party would challenge the government on such a point of view.

Answering a demand to know what practical steps the government was taking to put their extraordinary policy of disarmament into effect, J. Thomas, colonial secretary, said when carrying out the first stages of the Baldwin and Bonar Law air defense program, the government insisted on having a free hand in the direction of disarmament.

Fit for Trial.

Admiral Beatty, Tory, said if the policy advanced by Mr. Leach had been followed ten years ago the British would have lost the war and the Labor cabinet members would have "felt the German bayonets."

Whereupon James Kirkwood, radical Socialist from Glasgow, leaped to his feet and began shouting in such a broad Scotch accent that Admiral Beatty called for an interpreter.

"The interpretation I have heard tonight," Admiral Beatty wailed, "made me think I was in heaven. If we are to rely for defense upon sermons on the mount, God help us."

The resolution was still being debated when the house rose, the speaker refusing to permit a vote, explaining that the debate was of such magnitude that it must be fought out when the air estimates are being considered.

The Grand Rapids, Mich., police asked the detective bureau yesterday to search for Elinor Irwin, 16 years old, who had been missing since Saturday night.

To Advertising Agency Men

One of Chicago's well known agencies is willing to pay well for two men.

We want one, a man not only able himself to obtain and to hold clients, but competent to direct the activities of other account executives.

Of course, this man is already employed. He may be the owner of one of the smaller agencies wherein his abilities are cramped and hindered by insufficient capital. We will discuss merger or outright purchase.

He may be a chief account executive in some other agency, or he may be doing the actual work of a chief, but serving somewhere down the line because others ahead must be taken care of.

This man is highly intelligent. He is well groomed, pleasing of manner, a diplomat. His integrity is absolute and self-evident. To our thought he would be in the thirties. He could be younger.

The other man we want as assistant to the first.

Both of these men are accustomed to dealing with executives of big business. They will be in direct contact with advertising men of the first rank. They will be highly paid.

If your present situation is not wholly satisfactory for any reason, and you know you are one of the two men desired, write us at once in confidence. If you prefer, initiate inquiry through your attorney.

Good Bye Gray Hair!

A remarkable new discovery makes it possible to restore the original color of gray hair to its natural coloring matter or pigment in tiny cells found at the root of each hair. This hair through a natural process called pigmenting.

When this process is affected, the hair is no longer worried or discolored. The pigment supply fails, and no coloring is possible. The result is that the hair becomes streaked with gray. This gray does not grow out, but the hair is still the original color but an absence of color.

It makes no difference whether your hair was black, brown, blonde or auburn. Tru-Tone works equally well on all hair. It is as good as it was before it had even a trace of gray in it. It makes no difference if gray hair is 10, 20, 30, 40, 50 or 60 years old. No one need know you are balancing gray hair if you don't want them to.

Thousands of people have gladly paid $1.45 for Tru-Tone. But now we are offering our regular price of $1.00. The price has been reduced to only $1.00 for the same full-size bottle.

If you are not absolutely delighted with Tru-Tone, go to your dealer and get your money back. Tru-Tone is the only hair color that is absolutely guaranteed to protect against any risk whatsoever.

NEVER CONFERS WITH TWO OVER CULLERTON JOB

Whether Candidates or Probers Mystifies.

Whether Albert W. Goodrich, for president of the Goodrich Transit company, and George E. Gilman, retired business man, are candidates to succeed Fire Commissioner John F. Cullerton, or stated for membership on the city council committee to investigate his proposed, could not be learned in the city hall last night.

Goodrich was closeted with Mayor Dever during the day, but nor the mayor would discuss his mission. Mr. Goodrich who for years has answered fire alarms nearly as regularly as any member of the department and who has had a fire alarm system in his home, was presented to the mayor by Building Commissioner Frank Doherty.

Another member of Mayor Dever's cabinet hinted that Gilman who lives at 24 Belmont place might be considered in Mayor Cullerton's place if the latter's resignation is accepted. It was also hinted that Gilman might be asked to act as the mayor's representative on the committee which is to delve into Cullerton's history in the fire department.

Appointment of the committee to include a member selected by or from the Chicago Fire Underwriters' association, the Citizens' association, and the mayor was suggested to the latter by Cullerton in a recent conference.

The mayor has not definitely asserted his intention to retain Cullerton, even if the committee's findings vindicate the commissioner of the charges made against him.

VARYING CLAIMS PAVE WAY FOR GARMENT STRIKE

Manufacturers employing nonunion garment workers announced yesterday that the scheduled strike of the Garment Workers' union on next Friday morning would not affect operation of their shops.

Conflicting reports have been issued by employers and union officials on the relative strength of the union in the dressmaking industry.

Meyer Perlstein, international president of the Garment Workers' union, claims that 40 per cent of the dress industry has been organized. When he issues a strike call, many of the nonunion workers in the industry will respond, he asserts. He declined to name a definite strike date, but said the walkout would take place within five days. Embodied in the union's demands are requests for a wage boost of 15 per cent, a five day work week, and fund for unemployed workers.

The Employers' View.

Local manufacturers, represented by P. J. Mitchell, executive director, believe the organization in the dress industry are absurd. He said he had authentic information that the strike will be called on Friday.

"In Chicago 4,000 men and women are employed in making dresses," said Mr. Mitchell. "About 650 of these belong to the union and are employed in large shops along Milwaukee avenue.

Manufacturers employing 3,500 are employed in large shops operating on an open shop basis. Union officials have been trying to organize the open shop workers for nine months, but instead of increasing union membership they have decreased it."

Cloakmakers to Aid.

With the calling of a strike 4,000 union cloakmakers will quit work for a day and aid in increasing the street mobs along Market street. Perlstein said this action will bolster up the morale of the strikers. He said employers of cloakmakers have agreed to this arrangement.

MEXICAN REBELS IN GUERRILLA WARFARE TACTICS

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service) [Copyright, 1924, by The Chicago Tribune.] Mexico City, Feb. 19.—Adolfo de la Huerta, chief of state, has instructed the insurgents to begin campaigns against the Federal lines of communications beginning on Feb. 28.

Enrique Aguilar, operating on the Vera Cruz line, has already captured and destroyed several trains. Col. Cervantes, operating on the Pachuca-Tulua line, captured two trains yesterday, looting the cars and dynamiting the engines.

Former Villistas are harpooning trains from Juarez, and all trains are now heavily guarded.

Gen. Coss is operating on the León-Tampico branch.

It is stated that President Obregon has been urged to promulgate an amnesty law as a means of shortening the present guerrilla warfare, but he is determined to carry the fighting through until the rebels all have been eliminated.

MODISTE HELD SWINDLER OF SOCIETY FOLK

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special]—Miss Helen L. Beckett, 27, part owner of a 5th avenue corset shop, was under arrest at Jefferson Market prison today, accused of cheating wealthy society women clients and their male relatives of $10,000 in fashionable stock line.

The specific charge against the young woman is second degree forgery. William Law of Hollis, L. I., is the complainant. Mr. Law alleged that she got him to transfer to her more than $20,000 worth of securities on the pretense that she was going to invest it for him in a stock pool scheme and then forged his endorsement to the check she got for the securities and converted the money to her own use.

A society woman now at Palm Beach is understood to be another of Miss Beckett's victims.

BRUNDAGE ADDS NEW CHARGE TO SMALL'S LIST

BY PARKE BROWN.

Speaking at Morris, Ill., last night, Attorney General Brundage added another link to the chain of evidence concerning what happened to the jury in the trial of Gov. Len Small at Waikato.

He made the bittersweet admission that one of the jurors in charge of the jury of 12 of whom entrusted with the task of keeping the jurors free from outside influences, was on the Small pay roll all during the trial. The attorney general charged that this man was drawing pay as one of the hundred or more deputy game wardens who are known among politicians as "rabbits."

Charge Stratton Employed Him.

In that capacity he was a direct subordinate of William J. Stratton, state game warden, who was nominated with Gov. Small during the trial. And a juror who recited from the jury box after the verdict J. B. Fielder also as a deputy game warden.

"At the conclusion of the state's case," said Attorney General Brundage in his Morris speech, "no evidence was introduced by the government to restrain from taking the witness stand."

"Almost any man falsely accused would have availed himself of this opportunity to enter his denial forcibly and unmistakably. But apparently full reliance was placed in the jury, and the assertion of Small's innocence is now made by pointing to the verdict."

Eight Jurors Set Free.

"That places great value on that verdict, although only the eight right of the dozen were given their jobs. The sheriff, who turned up the veniremen for that jury and selected the bailiffs who were to protect it from corruption was appointed superintendent of prisons even at the cost of costing John L. Whitman, an ex-prisonologist."

DAWES STRIKES INDIRECT BLOW AT SMALL RACE

Recalls "Minute Men" Are Nonpartisan.
BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Illinois Minute Men of the Constitution received their primary campaign command from their leader, Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, yesterday.

In a radiogram from Paris, where he is serving with the committee of experts on German reparations, he said he had little doubt as to what most of the Minute Men think of Gov. Len Small, but urged them to take no part as to an organized unit in the primaries.

Ask General for His Orders.

The message was sent to C. A. Rogers, secretary of the Minute Men, and was a general response to numerous inquiries from captains and lieutenants who asked what steps to take in the primaries.

"I have little doubt as to where most of the minute men stand as individuals on this question," said Dawes.

"But we must remember that as an organization we are nonpartisan and reserve the right where the issue of law enforcement is raised at an election to take our stand behind it irrespective of party lines."

"If we do we are likely, naturally to become involved in internal political contests than with principle and thus lose our power for good. If after nominations are made by the two political parties at the primary, we find American principles of government endangered by certain candidates, it will be our duty to take action."

Women Again Question Small.

The Evanston Women's Roosevelt Republican Club voted yesterday to make their third request to Gov. Small for replies to the set of questions concerning the "Grant Park" dispute.

Further evidence of working agreements between the Small and Deneen camps is furnished in some of the legislative campaigns, particularly in the three north side districts. In the sixth district a Small-Deneen combine is backing William Brown against the regular state candidate for the house, Representatives Church and Gibson.

Was Brundage Man.

In the Thirtieth district a similar combine is behind Roy Juul against Representatives Carl Mueller and George Williston.

State Representatives M. R. Durso and Ernest W. Turner in the Twenty-ninth district are supported for re-election by a Deneen-Small combine.

In the Eleventh district on the south side Representative David L. Swanson, a Deneen man, openly refuses to wear any combination label. He voted with the Brundage crowd during the last election. Former Representative W. H. Grunden, another Deneenite, is running in this district again.

that fit present rims

You can now get full-fledged balloon tires for your car without waiting for delivery or making any change whatsoever in your rims or wheels.

Michelin dealers now have a full line of Michelin Comfort Cords in stock—including the Ford clincher size, the only balloon tire that fits Ford clincher rims without change.

Michelin introduced to the motoring public the first balloon tires to fit present rims.

These tires are balloons in size as well as name. They average 100% bigger in air space than the tires they replace and thus are far ahead of other tires which are called "balloons" but are less than 50% bigger than ordinary cords.

Michelin Comfort Cords are inflated to only 20 to 35 pounds. They ride over holes and rough spots as though these simply did not exist. And by protecting the car they increase its life as much as 50%. You can't afford not to change to them. Call up your dealer now. If he hasn't Michelin Comfort Cords in stock ask us for the name of the nearest Michelin Dealer.

MEN DRUG AND ATTACK GIRL; SMALL LENIENT

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Two young gentlemen, Ivan Hawk and Marvin Pfugardt, were sent to prison for a little social indiscretion. Perhaps that is the way it appeared to his excellency George Small, because he turned the losses last summer.

All those two youths did, according to the testimony, was to snare an 18 year old girl at an amusement park, buy her some candy, dope her with knockout drops, force her to enter a taxi cab, strike her in the face, dump her out on the prairie, knock her down, gag her, and then ravish her, while one "almost sat on her head." In addition, the victim said they took $7.75 from her, but she may have lost that in her fight with the two rapists.

Hold Evidence Conclusive.

Judge Scanian, who heard the case, and State's Attorney Crows wrote to the state board of pardons and paroles. "The evidence was conclusive as to their guilt."

The girl was unconscious for a long time after the attack. She was seven days in a hospital before she was well enough to move about.

Pfugardt, according to the police, spent six months previously in the Bridewell for stealing an automobile. A witness, Leonard Sverett, said that he had known Pfugardt for about five years and that he previously had attacked women.

The attack for which Hawk and his confederate were convicted and sentenced to a penitentiary took place between midnight and four o'clock in the morning of July 13, 1922. If it had happened a dozen days earlier the girl would not have been 18 years old.

The Arrival of Hawk.

The victim—whose name is not necessary, although several persons can find it in indictment No. 22,000 of the Criminal court building—testified that she and a girl friend were sitting on a bench in an amusement park when Hawk came along.

"First he wanted to buy me a kewpie doll and then he wanted to sit down beside us and we would not let him, the girl testified. Then he walked over to a candy stand and bought me a box of chocolates. He wanted my girl friend to let his pal go home with her, but she refused.

Hawk walked home with me. In the hallway downstairs he would not let me go until I kissed him. He wanted to kiss me again and I would not let him. I told him I'd call my mother, if he did. He grabbed my arms near the shoulders and pressed me up against the wall. I was faint. It made me sick, and I said him what he did, and he said I fainted in his arms. He urged me to get some air. He took a walk. I could barely walk, but with his help I went out for a short walk.

"At Belmont and Washawaw avenue, he wanted me to go to his home and phone my mother that I was staying with a girl friend all night. I refused and started to go home. Then there was a taxi cab standing there, and Hawk got in and took hold of me and forced me into the cab. I screamed and screamed, and the chauffeur told Hawk to hit me a punch in the jaw, and Hawk struck me.

Hawk stuffed a handkerchief in my mouth and kept it there until they forced me out of the cab. Hawk and the chauffeur pulled me out. Then Hawk and the chauffeur threw me to the ground, to the grand jury for investigation. It returned an indictment charging rape, and fixed the bond of the two defendants at $2,000 each. A jury returned a verdict of guilty against both on Jan. 27, 1922. Hawk got 7,215 as his sentence and Pfugardt 7,214.

Defended by Small's panel.

Hawk, who served his first in the first place, was given the lighter sentence when Gov. Small's board of pardons and paroles got the matter under their jurisdiction. He was turned loose on a parole May 17, 1923, after serving one year three months and fourteen days.

Refused by Small's panel.

The girl had been taken to a house of strangers, and the woman was told that she had been an auto accident and the two men wanted to leave the girl while they went to their friends. There she was found at the home at Maplewood avenue and Peter road by her brother. She was still unconscious.

Knockout Drops Given.

The brother testified that he took her home, and the doctor summoned said that his sister had been given knockout drops, that her mouth was all blistered on the inside.

The mother of the girl said that the doctor had told her the girl was soned. The mother testified: "My daughter's chin was swollen, her tongue was swollen and her clothes were bloody, torn and covered with dirt."

The two attackers were arrested July 12 by the Shakespeare avenue police. They had the girl examined by Dr. Frank J. Zuelke and then the police charged that the girl had been deeply and assaulted.

Municipal Judge Gentzel held the men to the grand jury for investigation. It returned an indictment charging rape, and fixed the bond of the two defendants at $2,000 each. A jury returned a verdict of guilty against both on Jan. 27, 1922. Judge Scanian sentenced them to two years each in the penitentiary at Joliet.

The girl arrived at the prison gates Feb. 2, 1922. Hawk got 7,215 as his sentence and Pfugardt 7,214.

GRAYLOR WARNS TRADE, LABOR OF OVEREXPANSION

Meet Economic Changes or Face Reckoning.

Overexpansion American business faces a day of reckoning and the result of Great Britain and Saty declared that the payment of the debt "would be revenged."

"We made a mistake in settling the debt with Great Britain," he said. "And just as sure as I'm standing here that debt will be revenged. We hold the key to the situation in Europe and that is in sitting down and discussing men with Britain's nations to discuss reparations and intervalled debt."

The credit men also were addressed by the Rev. Frederick Shannon, pastor of the Central church, who spoke on "Our American February."

Mr. Graylors' statement was made last night by Marvin A. Graylors, president of the First Trust and Savings Bank, in an address before the Chicago Association of Credit Men in the Hotel LaSalle.

Mr. Graylors asserted that the railroads and the building industries must forgive expansion along the lines followed in the last eighteen months or this day of reckoning will be hastened.

When Europe finally struggles to its feet, American manufacturers will be revered in the world markets, foreign manufacturers will compete for American business, and a recession in prices will follow, declared the banker.

Warms of Overexpansion.

"There was never a year that opened with so much uncertainty," he said.

"We have a distorted condition of the American mind, but I for one do not believe that we are standing at the crossroads without a signpost to guide us."

Never before have we had as great points out Slowdown Signs.

"I see two great industries which indicate a slowing down—the railroads and the building industry.

In the last eighteen months the railroads have bought more and equipment at great cost, and we have seen the tonnage increase to 1,000,000 cars a week, but I wish to caution the railroads not to over-borrow because money is available and in the expectation of increasing that tonnage.

As for the building industry, there is no justification for continuing the building program at the pace set during the last eighteen months. I know that rents are high, but apartments in Chicago are decent, and I don't want to see a collapse of values in the real estate business."

Mr. Graylors assured the debt settlement with Great Britain and Saty declared that the payment of the debt "would be revenged."

"We made a mistake in settling the debt with Great Britain," he said. "And just as sure as I'm standing here that debt will be revenged. We hold the key to the situation in Europe and that is in sitting down and discussing men with Britain's nations to discuss reparations and intervalled debt."

CHRISTIAN, FENG, BREAKS POWERS' RULES IN CHINA

[Chinese Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PEKING, Feb. 19.—The diplomatic corps is meeting here today to act upon the gross violation of legation quarter regulations by Gen. Yuh Shiang, Chinese Christian officer. As a result of his overriding native police in the legation quarter, foreign guards may assume patrol duty.

Gen. Feng also was addressed by the Rev. Frederick Shannon, pastor of the Central church, who spoke on "Our American February."

Gen. Galley as interpreter entered the legation quarter with armed outriders, thus violating the Boxer protocol forbidding entry into China there. When stopped by policemen before the German legation, the outriders assaulted the policemen, while Gen. Feng leaving his car tore the club from a private officer and threw it away.

Two other policemen halted the motor, and in both cases they were manhandled by the outriders.

Gen. Feng proceeded to the American legation where he dined with Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, the United States minister.

She can't stop to listen—

THIS young woman has just bought a pair of shoes. She needs, or will soon need, some dainty hosiery, a pair of dancing pumps, and other feminine requisites that this store sells.

But she is in a hurry and can't stop to hear about them now.

Suppose you were this merchant. Would you let her leave without an effort to sell her these other lines?

She can't stop to listen to your story—but she can take it away and, when she has time, she will read it.

She is going to buy that hosiery and those pumps—somewhere.

An attractive little folder or booklet, enclosed in the package she is carrying home, would remind her, just as you would have reminded her if she had not been in a hurry, that you sell those very articles she needs. A few good pictures in that folder or booklet would show them to her—just as you would have shown them to her—if you'd had the chance.

A well prepared and attractively printed booklet or folder enclosed with every package that leaves your factory or store, would interest the buyer in other articles you make or sell.

Furthermore, it would probably be seen and read by the buyer's family, and perhaps her friends and neighbors also.

And, as more people become interested in your product, more people will buy it.

Ask your printer to show you examples of package enclosures that are building business for others. Some of these may suggest a kind that should be profitable to you.

COLLINS TO BE SOX PILOT; SEES COMMY IN QUIET

Will Take Reins if Chance Can't Report.

Eddie Collins is to be the new manager of the White Sox if Frank Chance, who is ill at his home on the Pacific coast, is unable to go through with the contract he has with Gwynn Comiskey. The announcement of the appointment of Collins may come today or it may ride along for a few days or weeks until Chance is better able to gauge the extent of his illness.

Such was the information trickling out bit by bit last night following a day delay in details and mysterious returns to the effect that Collins either was or was not here.

Has Accepted Terms.

Collins had accepted the managerial terms as submitted by Comiskey before his arrival here yesterday from New York, the match was returned to him without information from sources 1,000 miles apart.

Coming into Chicago yesterday, Eddie left his train at the Englewood station, was met there by a Comiskey automobile and taken direct to a conference with White Sox officials.

One news agency had an observer at the job when Capt. "Cocky" made his getaway from the limited.

In view of a telegram which Owner Comiskey announced he had received from Chance earlier in the day, the announcement of the appointment of Col. Eddie as the successor to the famous Peacock Leader may not come for some little time.

May Take Charge at Once.

Then again, it may be that examinations by physicians within the next few days will show definitely that Chance cannot join the team until such a period as his services would not be timely enough to be valuable.

It is quite possible the appointment of Collins will be made at once, for him to arrange details and assume charge of the Sox when the first players leave for the Florida training camp on Feb. 28.

The telegram which Sox officials announced they had received from Chance read as follows:

"Your telegram and letter received. Very much pleased that you are willing to await my recovery. I am greatly encouraged. The doctor thinks he will have me in condition to join the team before the season starts. Kindest regards to all."

Various Rumors.

Collins left New York for Chicago on Monday and reports from his home in Philadelphia the night before that he was expected to return there not later than tomorrow.

New York dispatches had it that Collins was coming here to encourage a trade which would send him from the White Sox to the New York Yankees. But before these rumors were even hatched it was known that Collins had all but agreed to step into the managerial shoes on the south side if Chance is unable to take charge.

All of the White Sox players who live between Chicago and Florida have been directed to travel direct to the camp in Winter Haven. The official day for mobilization of the forces is set for March 2.

A sample of the switches baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis will award the New York Yankees as emblems of the 1923 world's champions will be shown by the commissioners yesterday and approved. The back of each case is engraved with the figure of a ball player with a place for the name of the team. Trophy plates and Major Miller Higgins will receive watches.

Comiskey had ordered the American League to be an occupant of a corner in the baseball department of one sporting goods house. Ormsby wore a wide smile as he announced the addition of a baby girl to his family last week.

JACKSON HIRES NEW LAWYER IN PERJURY CASE

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 19.—A new development of the perjury arrest of Joe Jackson, former outfielder on the Chicago White Sox, ordered by the court in the trial of the case of the player against the Chicago club of the American league, for salary under a three year contract, today was the announcement of the retention of Winfield C. Zabel, former district attorney here, as Jackson's lawyer in any criminal case which may be filed. Zabel said he would ask for an early copy of the testimony of witnesses at the trial.

A motion for judgment on the verdict for judgment in favor of Jackson has been filed by his attorneys. The court had previously set the verdict aside.

Although Jackson and his former teammate, Oscar "Happy" Felsch, who was a witness for Jackson, under arrest at the instance of Judge J. J. Gregory for perjury, no formal complaints having been issued against either by the office of the district attorney.

Jackson and his wife have returned to their home in Savannah, Ga.

Schedorn Tops Field in Weekly Revolver Match

C. W. Schedorn, with a score of 94, topped the field yesterday in the weekly shoot of the Chicago Revolver club at the Hamilton club room. Other high scores were:

L. Stockin, 90; H. J. Werner, 86; Dr. A. S. H. Smith, 85; C. L. Forster, 78; Bert J. Mack, 73; W. W. Wynn, 72.

CITY THREE CUSHION LEAGUE.

AN AMERICAN RECREATION, C. W. Schedorn, with a score of 94, topped the field yesterday in the weekly shoot of the Chicago Revolver club at the Hamilton club room. Other high scores were:

L. Stockin, 90; H. J. Werner, 86; Dr. A. S. H. Smith, 85; C. L. Forster, 78; Bert J. Mack, 73; W. W. Wynn, 72.

WOODS, MATURED DIVIDE.

Woods, N. Y., Feb. 19.—[Special]—Art Woods, Baltimore, split even here today in Woods' pocket ball match with James L. Morris. Woods won the first game, 100 to 95, in nineteen innings, but dropped the second, 100 to 98, in thirty-one frames. Morris ran 21 and 20.

NOTES OF THE CUE ROOMS.

At Foley's—Hartman, 40; Lipstein, 10; McCall, 40. Tuesday night—DeVries, 40; McCall, 40. Wenzel and Johnson, with three victories each, tied for first place in the cue room at the Hotel Astor. The New York side of the Illinois amateur three cushion tournament at the Forest room. Matches will be continued tonight and tomorrow.

NATIONAL TRACK GAMES DECLARED OFF THIS YEAR

Because of recent announcement by the American Olympic Committee that the winners of the first three places in each event in the various track and field meets will automatically qualify for the Real Olympic trials in the Harvard stadium on June 13 and 14, there will be no National Collegiate track and field meet this year.

This information was given out yesterday by Gen. Palmer E. Pierce, president of the National Collegiate A. A. A., who conveyed it to A. A. Miller of Chicago, one of the members which has charge of the committee. The other members of the committee are T. E. Jones of Wisconsin and Major John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the western conference.

Action of the American Olympic committee in automatically qualifying the places which in the various track and field meets will award with the expense of sending athletes to the National Collegiate games.

Gen. Pierce's decision also will unravel the tangle between officials of the National Collegiate A. A. A. and the graduate managing committee of the western conference. It had been the intention of Stagg, Jones and Griffith to hold the National Collegiate in Chicago on the first Saturday in June. This is the date on which the conference games have been held for years.

Star Athlete at Loyola Breaks Scholastic Record

William Devlin, all around athlete of Loyola university, received the highest average of grades in all his courses of study ever made at the school, according to an announcement yesterday.

CUBS REACH AVALON; MOUNTAIN HIKE TODAY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Avalon, Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 13.—[Special]—Bill Killefer and his first squad of Cub rods into port this noon, but by the time the manager had separated his charges from a boatload of tourists and Iowa farmers the day was practically gone, so the inaugural program of the training grind will be deferred. Killefer had intended to work in the boys with a three mile hike over the mountains, but this will be inflicted upon them and their soft muscles tomorrow.

BBB Makes a Speech.

After the manager had delivered a well-worn speech as to what will be expected from every athlete during the long stay here following the hike, the boys will be treated to a hard workout on Wright Field, which has been manacured down to the last blade of grass.

All of the early bird squad is on hand except Vic Aldridge, who prefers the winter blists to the balmy atmosphere of the king island's empire.

Four More Join Squad.

Four employees were on hand to greet the squad this morning at Los Angeles. They were George Grantham, the second slicker, and Pitchers Nick Dunovich and Bob Osborn.

Grantham spent several weeks in Los Angeles to receive treatment for a trick muscle in his left arm, and says the ailment has disappeared. He looks as if he could play ball tomorrow. The fourth man to show up was Coach Bobby Wallace.

"HIP POCKET" OF PHILS' BALL PARK IS ELIMINATED

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 19.—[United News]—The "hip pocket" of the Phillies' ball park into which many homineus were dropped in previous seasons has been eliminated and every human in the local yard this year will be a real Homer.

Art Fletcher, manager of the Phils, decided to eliminate the pocket, consisting of encroaching bleachers in center field and a short wall in right field.

Although the pocket was thought to be the Phillips' best secret, it had been more often than any other club in the home grounds, Fletcher looked up the records to learn that for every Homer men dropped into the pocket the enemy made two.

HUESTON BUMPS FRANKLIN TWICE

Tom Hueston took both of his national pocket league games from Walter Franklin of Kansas City at Franklin's yesterday, winning the afternoon game, 100 to 18 in fourteen innings, and the night game, 100 to 39 in seventeen innings. It gave the local player three of the four game series.

Franklin, who ran eighty Monday night, was in poor form, his best run in the two games being seven. Hueston played consistently, getting twelve double figure runs.

REISZEL WINS TWO.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 19.—[Special]—Ottis Reiszell, local three cushion billiard player, today won two National league games. Art Clegg, of Milwaukee, in the afternoon game, the local cueist, was hard pressed to win, 50 to 49, but had little trouble.

Reiszell, in the top, 50 to 23, in forty-nine frames, Reiszell had high runs of 4 and 5. While Jackson had high runs of 4 and 3.

TWO FOR ALLEN.

Kenny Allen was twice today in the billiard league games. Art Clegg, of Baltimore, in fifteen innings and 100 to 99 in twenty-one. He had runs of 43 and 26. Chub hit 22 and 30.

CLINTON TAKES FIFTH GAME IN 18.2 CUE MEET

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 19.—John A. Clinton Jr. of Pittsburgh tonight defeated Jacob Klinger of New York in the fifth game of the national class A 18.2 ball line tournament, 300 to 197.

The winner's average was 11.3-27 and he had high runs of 74, 37, and 36, while Klinger's average was 4.2-26 and his high runs were 39, 20, and 15. The losing was unable to control the invincibles at any stage of the match.

Edgar T. Appleby of New York defeated Jacob Klinger of New York, former European champion, 300 to 206, in this afternoon's first game.

Emil A. Rehner of Youngstown, O., defeated Dr. Richard M. Rosow of Baltimore, 300 to 233, in the next game.

IN MOTORDOM By J. L. JENKINS

OTOR addicts of Chicago are answering the growing questions of traffic congestion and driving discomfort with the use of taxicabs, according to a report issued yesterday by the city commission on traffic.

Last year, the report states, the company served 32,000 passengers in Chicago over a distance of 90,000 miles. In order to care for the big increase in transportation demand the company added 1,000 cars to its city equipment. The increase in cab traffic over 1923 is placed at 4,000,000 passengers. On New Year's eve receipts of the company approximated $100,000, despite the blizzard that raged over the city. The company now operates 3,000 cabs in Chicago.

"To give women a chance to get away from husbands."

A WOMAN'S COLLEGE has erected a building as a kind of retreat for wives. Its announced purpose is—"To give women a chance to get away from husbands and children and household drudgery . . . to gain readjustment and, incidentally, while living again in the world of thought, to acquire knowledge of new and better ways of doing ordinary tasks."

Women who can visit this building will find refreshment of spirit. But few can go. The hard problem is how to "get away from husbands and children and household drudgery" while staying right at home.

Because the WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION is a solution of this hard problem, it has had a larger growth in the past five years than any other magazine for women.

It IS an escape from "household drudgery"

In hundreds of neighborhoods, wives are learning to do their work cooperatively. Portsmouth, Virginia, has a group that keeps house under one roof; Cambridge, Iowa, has a cooperative laundry and sewing room. The interesting details—along with scores of new helps to the housewife—are in the March Companion.

It IS an open door into "the world of thought"
Should every girl have a job? Are men usurping women's work? Margaret Woodrow Wilson says so. "There are many men selling baby ribbons who might better be reclaiming deserts." Arnold Bennett is also in the March Companion; read what he says about the thrilling interest of "The Place You Live In."

It IS a journey into other lands, other lives

Said the Earl of Strathmore to his neighbors, when his daughter agreed [after three proposals] to marry the man who will very likely be King of England: "I'm jolly glad to tell you that my daughter has decided to marry the Duke of York. I am glad for the simple reason that he is a good, clean-living British boy." Frederick L. Collins tells the story of Lady Betty and the Duke in the March Companion.

The few women who can journey to the college building described above will spend many dollars on the journey. The 2,000,000 women who buy the Companion spend 15c a month for it.

But the craving which will prompt the journey is the craving which prompts the purchase. And in their spiritual fruits the purchase and the pilgrimage are very much alike.

MEN'S FASHIONS

BY A. T. GALLICO.

Your Muffler Requirements.
NEW YORK.—Special Correspondent.
Men, from the dress point of view, are divided pretty much into two classes—those who get along with a few of each article of clothing as is possible, and those who overdo the idea and have so many neckties or walking sticks or hats there aren't enough days in each season for the clothes to have one wearing. There seems to be little happy medium.

The man in the man who does not to have a well balanced wardrobe, with sufficient changes in the various parts of attire to make a pleasing variety without being a faddist in any one line.

Takes mufflers, for instance. Many men are satisfied if they have one muffler, which they use for every occasion. The average man at the most owns two mufflers, one for day and one for evening. Then there is the man not enough for the well but moderately stocked wardrobe. To be prepared for all weather and all occasions, the well dressed man would do well to have at least four mufflers. This does not mean that a man must buy four new mufflers each year. They do not go quickly out of style. The black and white striped knit, silk or plain weave muffler has come only been used for several years, and will doubtless be with us for a few more. Perhaps one new muffler a year and one can keep up with the times and feel always correctly garbed about the neck at any rate.

For these four mufflers we suggest a rather heavy woolen one for stormy and extremely cold weather, one of those lightweight flannel or plain weave mufflers, black or white, a silk square or a knitted silk in colored stripes, for a more drowsy muffler, and a smart evening muffler in black and white or gray or white effects.

Of course, one need not stop at four mufflers. One might like to have each of these types of muffler in more than one color scheme, to insure a good color combination at all times.

Geneva Becomes Winter Sport Center for Chicago Society

It does not go as far as a Mont, Lake Placid or Quebec for your sports, she may enjoy good sailing, ice skating, tennis, and golf at Lake Geneva, where numerous Chicagoans go every week-end. Northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin also have winter sports. Lake Geneva seems to be the most popular with Chicagoans, probably because there is such a large colony at lake each summer. Miss Helen daughter of Dr. George Shaw of 1440 North State street, who is a party up to her father's lake residence, is planning a party for this week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Whiting of the Shore Drive hotel and Mr. and Mrs. Marquette A. Healy of 40 Scott are among the most ardent devotees of ice boating and almost every week-end they take a few friends for Saturday and Sunday. Before they go to California, the John J. Hollis and their family spent many weeks at their Lake Geneva place, the young William H. Mitchells spending most of their time in country club hunting. Among others who go to the lake for the sports are Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter the Ambassador, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Boyden Jr. of Hubbard Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Walden W. Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Wacker of Lake Forest, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Waller of 226 Glenshaw terrace, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bartholomay of 1455 State parkway and their family.

Mrs. Alvin C. McCord of 1532 Stateway and Mrs. Edgar C. Rose of 1536 Chestnut street are giving a luncheon today at the residence of former before the meeting of the Young Fortnightly.

The English Speaking Union is giving a luncheon today at 12:30 o'clock at the Hotel La Salle for Mrs. Beatrice Webster Robertson Hale, who will talk on "Understanding Each Other."

Mr. and Mrs. John Borden and their daughter, Betty, of 1029 Lake shore drive; little Jeanne Purcell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Purcell of 1412 Astor street, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. and Mrs. of Lake Shore, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Gardner of 1504 Bellvue place, and James C. Johnson of 1519 State parkway are supporting this evening to spend Washington's birthday at the Borden plantation, Glenview, near Glenview, Ill. The party will return on Monday, and Mr. Borden will depart on the following Friday for a week's visit in the east with his elder daughter, Ellen, who is at St. Timothy's school at Glenview, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. King of Lake Forest, who have been in Augusta, Ga., for several weeks, have postponed their return until March.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Stewart of 76 West Wacker place, departed yesterday for a week's vacation in Florida.

Their baby son, Alexander McCormick, will be with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McCormick of 4002 Lake Park avenue, during his parents' absence. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick returned recently from Nasau.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Morris of the Drake will depart this week to spend some time at his Manchester, Mass., residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gage Taylor of 1536 Oakdale avenue will depart tomorrow for Browns Mills, N. J.

Don B. Sebastian, who has been at the Drake since his wife and son, John, went abroad, has gone to Callanua for a month's vacation with his mother, Mrs. John C. Sebastian.

AUGURY OF PEACE IN INDUSTRY SEEN IN MINERS' PACT

BY SCRUTATOR.
Triumph of John L. Lewis' plan for an alliance to organize the coal industry by a long working agreement between operators and men, conditional forecast in this column shortly after the first of the year, should have an important effect on 1924 business.

In reviewing the remarkable productive activity and industrial prosperity of 1923 it is not difficult to discern an important factor in 1924, and it also was a factor of the improved labor efficiency that distinguished the healthy business expansion of 1923 from the dismal inflation of 1919 and 1920.

With the mine settlement practically completed and with the prospect of a series railroad labor stoppage averted by restoration to the train service of a part of the reduction that appeared in 1923 as a share of contribution to deflation, it is now to be expected, on the route the prospects for industrial peace are excellent.

A review of strike statistics in recent years based on the figures of the National Association of Manufacturers, which is not a corporation but a collection of firms, will show that a number of working days were lost through strikes and lockouts in 1923 than in any year since 1915. The association figures show that in 1923 15,527,776 days were lost in strikes and 1,028,044 in lockouts, entailing a loss to the workers of $39,525,457, and to the employers of $38,901,345, and to the public of $373,114,700.

Nowhere are the figures as striking as in the coal strike, which amounted to a loss of 12,174,000 working days of $67,854,996 to the workers, $15,525,456 to employers, and $2,981,500,000 to the public in strikes alone, taking an account of lockouts. This enormous waste of 1919 was enough to cause the collapse of the post-warium business boom, and the figures for 1923 were the next largest in history.

The strikes of 1923 were the third largest in losses of money and time, and largest in number of days lost, than any strike epidemics are heralds both of depressions and revivals of business.

The figures show clearly that the "open shop" drive of 1923 was not responsible for as many strikes as were caused in 1919 by labor's unrestrained fight to take advantage of the post-war situation and to increase its strength. On the other hand, the 1923 figures show that labor's defiance, who say that labor will always kill the goose that lays the golden egg, and that immigration restriction will paralyze industry by giving labor an opportunity to strike without fear of losses. Labor for the most part showed good sense in 1923 and did not generally "crowd prosperity." The miners have shown a similar tendency this year.

No candid man can review the recent history of the A. F. of L. and its federated bodies without being struck with the sanity and balance of its leaders as compared to the hysteria of the politicians. The official utterances of labor's regular leaders have shown appreciation of sound economics and a recognition of state socialism, and in going to power it is almost driving to a dead end "the tailspin" who can stand back on the American labor movement as they have on the British.

Chicago Grain Men to Assist Farmers

The Chicago Board of Trade is to assist the bankers in getting the $10,000 needed for the farm credit corporation organized last week. The directors yesterday authorized the acting president, Joseph Simons, to appoint a committee of seven to take charge of the work.

Chicago to Have Cotton Trading on Grain Board

A move for bringing trading in cotton to Chicago has been made by the Chicago Board of Trade. The directors yesterday authorized Joseph Simons, acting president, to appoint a committee of five members to formulate rules and regulations for trading in cotton futures.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Assessments by President Coolidge and Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover were in a healthy condition helped to insure a more cheerful tone to the stock market yesterday, although operators on the long side showed a disposition to limit their commitments. —Achieved by Clothier aid of Chicago Tribune advertising

CAPPER & CAPPER began business thirty years ago—June 10, 1893, to be exact. By hard work and good merchandising the business soon developed into one of the finest men's furnishings establishments in the United States.

Twenty years ago men's clothing was added to furnishings.

Twelve years ago Capper & Capper moved its main store to extensive quarters at the corner of Michigan Boulevard and Monroe Street. A second store was then opened in the Sherman Hotel.

Ten years ago consistent advertising was begun in The Chicago Tribune. During the period 1914 to 1922 inclusive Capper & Capper used 209,000 agate lines of space in The Tribune—an average of 23,000 lines a year.

As a result of all this Capper & Capper on December 31, 1922, was at the peak of its career. It was considered one of the eminently successful firms in its line. It was at the point where the ordinary concern would rest on its oars with complacent self-satisfaction.

But on January 1, 1923, Capper & Capper ran in The Chicago Tribune the page "Dynamite and Printers' Ink," inaugurating a drive for the development of its clothing department.

During 1923 Capper & Capper used 71,000 lines in The Tribune with such remarkable results that this firm intends to press swiftly onward in confidence that "business is as good as we make it."

The year 1922—after 29 years in business—yielded a clothing volume of $430,000 in the two Chicago stores.

Aggressive merchandising and 71,000 lines of powerful copy addressed to The Chicago Tribune's hundreds of thousands of readers increased this to $720,000 during 1923—a 70% increase in one year in the business of an established successful concern.

There is inspiration in this case for real advertisers, and a lesson for superficial or spasmodic advertisers.

The Chicago market with ever-increasing wealth—The Chicago Tribune with ever-expanding circulation—offer greater and greater opportunities to those with the vision and guts to grasp them.

The small advertiser thinks he has exhausted the market while Chas. A. Stevens & Bros. pays $4,500,000 for space to expand. The small advertiser uses 5,000 lines in The Tribune and then shifts to another paper to reach other readers while Capper & Capper triple its volume of Tribune lineage after being in the paper with substantial schedules for nine years.

It is true that Capper & Capper has stores in other cities, and it is true that Capper & Capper uses other Chicago papers in addition to The Tribune. But the big instructive feature of Capper policy is that the major market is not slighted because of scattered effort, and the burden of producing results is placed squarely upon the one most powerful medium. Of the total Capper & Capper expenditures for Chicago newspaper advertising, 75% (in 1923 as in past years) was for space in The Tribune.

Therefore The Tribune feels that it is entitled to a share in the credit for the 70% increased sales won for Capper & Capper clothing in Chicago last year.

The Tribune believes that the experience of Capper & Capper is a tribute to this market, to this medium, and a confirmation of the statement that "business is as good as we make it."

Merchants and manufacturers in many lines can develop business as did Capper & Capper. Ask a Tribune man to call and talk it over.

“Business is as good as we make it!”

DA
EXPERTS ON WAYS TO RAPID TRANSIT

Want All Tracts
One System

BY ARTHUR EVA
An initial subway system consisting of the "L" roads and bus feeders, where necessary, all under a unified operation, are headliners in a set of recommendations issued last night by the Western Society of Engineers.

The report deals with questions of rapid transit, the elevated and surface lines, street
enlargement, enlargement of the central business district, motor-vehicle traffic and improvements in the streets.

For Unified System.

In its forward, it declares " similar development which seems likely to give greatest relief in the nation of the surface and elevated ways."

As to municipal ownership, unless financial and legal can be changed to attract capital into the transportation. Sale of the city must be made to the systems and for exchange. The findings of the engine the outcome of the recent in which all phases of the problem were discussed.

Chief Features of Plan.

As finally approved by the directors and sent out by Ed Nethercutt, secretary, the principal recommendations are:

"Construct a limited system ways and expand the existing and surface railways including bus feeders, where desirable, to unified system."

"Consolidate and coordinate elevated and surface lines."

"Establish within the limits city, a single primary fare, base cost of service, with free or paid for between rapid transit and lines."

"Limit the rate of expansion of traffic."

"Route through traffic to central centers."

Tells Financial Difficulties.

The report then makes reference financial difficulties and the use of city's credit as previously quoted:

"If the unified system is by the city, operation should be private corporation under lease, vised by a board of commissioners.
These commissioners should have tenure of office and should be persons selected from the engineering and commercial fields."

The report opposes long haul ways, saying of rapid transit pro-

"The wide extent of territory served; the low density of population, and the limitations imposed on the system of subways impractical."

Favor Elevated Lines.

"A modern elevated type should the standard construction for the owing to its lower cost. Open construction may be substituted for closed structure where applicable."

"The proper function of subways Chicago will be to accommodate buses and surface cars in areas on or above the surface in route to accommodate the needed population."

Would Reduce Congestion.

For the downtown district the region."

"Straighten the Chicago river Pek street to 18th street."

"Open through north and streets between State street and relocated river."

"Dismantle the steam railroads line south of the loop district and the opening of such streets."

"Provide additional transportation throughout an enlarged loop surrounding the present loop."

"Reduce the allowable buildings to decrease the ma-density of occupation."

Street Traffic Problems.

The problem of bus lines in regarding them as "valuable means of surface or rapid lines, in districts where the fare is not an essential consideration where fixed tracks are obliged."

For the handling of general traffic, including buses, private concerned on page 4, only
